LANCASTER, KY.

Cut your weeds.
Wheat harvest in full blast.
Cincinnati Excursion next Sunday.
Some farmers have "laid by" their corn.

The new ice factory is doing a capacity business.
Don't waste the city water, you may need it later along.

Keep the milk and water free from contamination during the heated period.

The grand jury is inquiring carefully into the infringements of the fish and game laws.

Neighboring towns have turned the water into the public drinking fountains, why not here?

Fishing was never better in Kentucky river, lots of them being taken, and legitimately too.

Two valuable gold watches will be given June 27th, two separate contests one for the girls and one for the boys.

The concrete work is completed about the public square, why not clean it well and keep it free from obstructions?

The two gold watches, to be given to contestants at school auditorium on June 27th., can be seen at Morrow & McRoberts.

Why not sell your produce to a produce house? We pay 14 cts for clean fresh eggs. H. B. Northcott.

Hon. C. C. Bagby, of Danville, will decide the two contests, for the gold watches, at the school auditorium, tonight, Friday June 27th.

The Garrard Co. Woman's Fair, has issued a premium list, that is proving to be of great interest to the ladies of this and neighboring communities. Next week a complete catalogue of the Fair and its attractions will be ready for distributing. Be sure to get one.

On account of a misplaced letter, Thomas Coleman of Stanford, does not appear on the program for the contest tonight, but has since entered and will take part. 6-27-11.

The Grand Jury.
The Grand Jury after sitting three days of last week adjourned until next Monday, June 30th, when its deliberations will be continued for at least two more days, and longer if it be found necessary. A large number of witnesses have been summoned to appear before the body next week, and several matters are under rigid investigation. Several indictments have already been returned, but as yet have not been made public.

Hot Magisterial Race In Sight.
There will doubtless be three candidates for the office of Magistrate in the Buckeye precinct at the November election, as there are candidates of the three parties circulating petitions for the nominations for that office. Squire Harrison Ray, the present incumbent, and who holds the office at the hands of the Republican party, is a candidate for the nomination at the hands of the Progressives; Porter Wearren an uncompromising "stand-patter" seeks the toga at the hands of the Republican party and Mr. John S. Ham, a sterling young democrat, would look after the affairs of that end of the county and seeks the democratic nomination in his district.

Schlaegel-Zimmer.
Miss Mamie Schlaegel and Dr. Charles Zimmer of Pomeroy O. were united in marriage at the Parsonage of the East Covington Cathedral in that city at 5 o'clock on Wednesday afternoon. Father Ryan the pastor of that church officiating. Father Ryan formerly lived in Richmond and is a lifelong friend of the Zimmer family. The young couple will remain in Cincinnati at the Sinton hotel until Saturday when they will come to Lancaster for a brief visit to the grooms parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. Zimmer at the Kengarian, after which they will spend a months honeymoon among the lakes of Michigan, and will be "at home" in Pomeroy O. about August 1st. The bride is a daughter of a well known business man of Pomeroy and was a popular society girl in that city. The groom, "Dr." Zimmer needs no introduction or word of commendation to Lancaster people, he lived here from his boyhood days, the only son of that estimable couple Mr. and Mrs. R. Zimmer of the Kengarian hotel. Several years ago he completed a course in the Cincinnati College of Dentistry and chose Pomeroy and neighboring towns for his practice, he at once established a lucrative business, growing to such proportions that he was compelled to take in a partner and maintain two separate offices in order to care for his trade. The bride came to Cincinnati on last Sunday and was there joined by Miss Elsie Zimmer who assisted her in the selection and purchase of the fittings and furnishings for the home which Charley already has prepared for her in Pomeroy.

The happy young couple have the well wishes of an unlimited number of friends in Lancaster.

PUBLIC SPEAKING.
On Saturday, June 28th, at 3 o'clock P. M. I will address the voters at Bryantsville, in the interest of my candidacy for the office of County Attorney. I will speak upon matters of vital interest to the citizens and tax payers of the County.

My opponent is invited to be present and I will willingly divide time with him.

G. B. Swinebroad.

Oratory and music, vocal and instrumental in abundance, at school auditorium June 27th. Admission 35, 25, and 15 cents. Reserved seats at McRoberts.

Mr. Robinson's Condition Encouraging.
The many friends of Mr. J. Fleece Robinson, who is suffering with typhoid fever will rejoice to know that his condition is very encouraging, and it is thought that if the present favorable condition continues, he will soon be able to be up.

Mrs. Baerlein Has Runaway.
A horse driven by Mrs. Chas. Baerlein became unmanageable in front of the residence of E. P. Brown on Paulding street on last Sunday morning and ran away, overturning the buggy and considerably bruising Mrs. Baerlein and her sister who was with her. The buggy was dragged a distance of two blocks before the frightened animal was stopped.

School Examinations.
The annual examination for applicants for school certificates, was held in the office of county superintendent Miss Jennie Higgins on last Friday and Saturday. There were eight applicants. The result of the examinations will not be known until the papers have been graded by the examining board at this place and then sent to the State Superintendent at Frankfort.

Time Growing Short.
The candidate who desires his name to go on the ballots to be voted for at the coming August primary election, has but a short time in which to file his petition, and if he has not already done so, had better put the finishing touches to it and file it with the county clerk at once. The law requires that petitions for county offices shall be filed with the county clerk "at least thirty days prior to the holding of the primary election", and said petitions shall contain "at least three per cent and no more than ten per cent of the total vote of the party of the candidate in the county in which he seeks to be elected."

To The Democrats Of Garrard County.
I may be prevented from seeing all of you in person, and this method must be taken to give an account of my stewardship, as your Representative, and to ask your endorsement for reelection.

I worked and voted while at Frankfort for the pledges made in the Democratic platform, and supported the Democratic administration. What more can you ask? Opposition to this course is certainly not Democratic and will not receive your approval. Opposition to the acts of a democratic legislature should come from another source rather than from a democratic candidate for that office. My opponent could not defend our party in November, if he should get the nomination in August, upon the statements he offers through the press.

Individual platforms, in our legislative department, go for naught in these days of party pledges.

The Republican administration left a debt to the incoming democrats of more than one and one fourth millions of dollars, and also numerous unpaid bills which the state was honor bound to pay, and the same were paid. As to "superfluous offices," not one was created beyond the necessities required.

No bill was ever passed for the benefit of "some broken down politician" and I would like for my opponent to name one.

I never voted for any bill to gratify any official, high or low. I wear no man's collar.

On the question of equal distribution of taxes I heartily supported the PUBLIC UTILITIES BILL, and other measures seeking to reduce the taxes of the farmer, by requiring corporations to pay their just proportion.

I was one of the three members of the committee on PUBLIC ROADS AND HIGHWAYS in the house who killed that section of the road bill which sought to impose a tax to build turnpikes in the mountains. I also attempted to embody a provision in the same bill to pay the farmers for working the county roads, which was defeated after a strenuous fight upon my part to incorporate same in the bill.

I have voted for William Jennings Bryan every time that he was a candidate, and shall do so again if he is ever the party's nominee, and why his name should have been brought into this campaign is a mystery to me.

I was in regular attendance at all times during the session of which I was a member. My opponent asked for and was granted an indefinite leave of absence 3 days after the convening of the session of 1898 of which he was a member from Oldham Co.

I voted against the bill to increase the pay of the members of the Legislature from five to ten dollars per day.

I voted for a bill to prohibit the rail roads, and other transportation companies from issuing passes to members of the legislature and other state officials. I was a member of the committee that put this bill upon its passage for the first time since the adoption of the constitution, and I have often wondered why the session of which my opponent was a member in 1898, did not endeavor to pass such an important measure.

My opponent voted for the bill giving the legislature the power to elect the Prison Commissioners, which proved to be objectionable, and our platform called for a change in the manner of their election, which was made, taking it from political influence.

The farmers of Garrard County represent the chief industrial interests of the county, and being a farmer, I feel that I am well equipped to represent those interests.

Singing at weddings or public entertainments can very readily be made the subject of a jest, but when it comes to funerals, I deem it too sacred a matter to be brought into a political campaign, even if charges had been made for such service. I have sung at many weddings and funerals in this and adjoining counties, and will continue to do so when requested, and I challenge any man to say that I ever received one cent of compensation for such service. My opponent fails to intimate that I have sung at weddings. It was my great pleasure to have sung at his own home upon an occasion of this kind just about one year ago.

This is the second time in my life that I have ever asked for office, and I feel that my record as your Representative justifies your endorsement. I don't expect to become a chronic office seeker.

I am sure to win by a handsome majority, and I trust that my friends will look after my interest on Aug. 2nd. I take this method of thanking them for the hearty support given me in my former race for this office, trusting that they will give me the same support in the coming primary.

I accept my opponents invitation to be present at his various speaking appointments, and will be prepared to defend my record and the record of the democratic party.

Very truly yours,
John M. Farra.

Three counties will be represented in declamatory contest, at school auditorium, on June 27th. Reserved seats at McRoberts at 35 cents, general admission 25 cents, children under 12 years 15 cents.

We are authorized to announce the following candidates for city offices.

For Police Judge.

E. W. HARRIS.
J. P. PRATHER.

Sup't. Herron informs us that it is the intention of the City Council to macadamize the public square in the near future, to give to it the same treatment that the county is giving to some of the turnpikes. We are heartily in favor of this action, or any other for the good of the town, or for its beautification, and we think that such a step is rendered all the more necessary by the putting down of concrete about the square. However, the experience we have had with our water works prompts us to the belief that the city should finish one undertaking before they begin another, and that every dollar that is available should be used at the very earliest possible moment to furnish to the people of Lancaster, good, pure wholesome drinking water, should be spent on that much talked of but little worked on filter. The finishing of the filter is an urgent necessity, a necessity to the good health of the community, a necessity that should no longer be neglected. The water now being used comes direct from the lake, without any kind of filtration, it is full of vegetation, which of a necessity will become foul from the warm weather, and which makes the water in its crude state a menace to the public health, to say nothing of the fact that there are people in the community who are compelled to drink this water.

The city council claims to have funds adequate to perfect a filtering system, then for goodness sake what are they waiting on, why don't they build a filter; surely they have had ample time, the bonds were voted nearly two years ago, and when they failed in the first attempt, then why not follow the old proverb and "try again".

It is not our wish or intention to censure in this matter, and we are willing to extend all leniency toward the gentlemen who compose the city council, but we are asked every day "when the filter will be completed", and we are just about as well qualified to answer that question as we are to state "how old was Ann". If this matter is neglected much longer, it may be the cause of an epidemic, either typhoid or some other type of fever, that might cost many lives in the community, which might be avoided by timely intervention on the part of the city council.

By all means if it is possible and the funds are available, let us have the improvement of the public square, but AFTER THE COMPLETION OF THE FILTER.

Did you ever see a walking newspaper? Of course you have, all towns have them and Lancaster is no exception. They are usually idle persons who have nothing else to do but to look after other peoples affairs and after applying and enlarging upon the facts, spreading them among their neighbors. They combine all the phases of a newspaper, they gather the personals, they look up local news, cloth it in garments of their own making, and for editorial work they have every editor in the country "beat to a frazzle", for they comment upon every thing which comes to their knowledge, and they are not as careful in their remarks as the newspaper is compelled to be, for they are usually irresponsible, and if things get too hot for them, they can always take refuge in subterfuge and if that does not suffice, will resort to downright denial. They attend church and criticize the preacher, the sermon and the congregation; they attend court and after the completion of a trial they hasten to the streets to be the first ones to tell the verdict in some particular case, the judge, jury and prisoner coming in for their share of comment.

This is the class of people who always remark after perusing their neighbors paper that "there is nothing in that paper", and of course there is not to them, for they have spent a hard week in garnering the very news which the paper serves to its patrons, and could sufficient credence be placed in the reports of the "walking newspapers", the subscription list of the legitimate paper would soon dwindle to nothing, but our contemporary mentioned herein usually has his news taken as the saying goes "with a pinch of salt."

Withdrawal.

On account of certain conditions, I withdraw from the race for Assessor of Garrard County. Thanking my many friends for their promised support, I am,
Very resp't.
W. L. Huffman.

Harry Bailey's Slayer Convicted.

The trial of Newton Arnold, who some months ago shot and killed Harry Bailey in Cynthia, resulted in a manslaughter verdict and the indeterminate sentence of from 2 to 21 years in the penitentiary. The case was taken to Falmouth in Pendleton county on a charge of venue. Bailey was one of the most prominent Masons in the state, and was well known in Lancaster where he was a frequent visitor on business connected with the fraternity.

The work on the Richmond turnpike has been temporarily suspended, until after harvest. There is only about a mile more work on that road, when we understand the machinery will be taken to the Buckeye pike. This will be good news to the people in the Buckeye neighborhood.

Fair Season Near.

The Fair season opens next month and will continue until the coming of cold weather. Lancaster and Garrard county will patronize the fairs in neighboring counties more liberally than ever this year because of the fact that we are to have no fair of our own, that is we are to have no stock fair, but don't forget the big exhibition which the ladies of the community are to have on the College campus on July 18th and 19th.

Narrow Escape.

Mr. Luxon a traveling salesman for Kellogg & Co. of Richmond halted his automobile under a large tree in front of the store at Hyattsville one day last week, while he was there a thunder storm came up and lightning struck the tree above his head, and but for a telephone wire which ran through the tree diverting it, would doubtless have descended and perhaps caused serious damage to the gentleman and his machine.

Horse Epidemic Abated.

The epidemic of Catarrhal Fever which existed among the horses of the county, seems to have entirely subsided, and we hear of neither sickness or deaths among the animals of the county. The livery stables are again open to the public, having been thoroughly disinfected and every possible effort made to guard against the recurrence of the disease. Country people are again coming to town as was their custom, and only the memory of the malady remains in the minds of the people.

Cincinnati Suffering From Strikes.

Cincinnati seems to be double cursed in the way of strikes. Scarcely did they get the strike of the street car employees settled when the workers in the various ice factories of the city went on a strike. This strike included the wagon drivers and because of the extremely hot weather, severe hardship was worked upon the people of the city. Demands were made upon all the cities within a radius of several hundred miles, but their combined efforts only ameliorated the situation to a slight extent. The various fire engine houses and police stations were turned into ice depots, and all efforts in their power were made by Mayor Henry Hunt and the city officials to relieve the situation as much as possible. Danville and Lexington aided by sending what surplus ice could be spared.

Only A Month Remains.

With the coming of next Tuesday only one month will remain for the various candidates to urge their claims upon the voters of the county, and they are taking advantage of every minute of the time. Last Saturday saw a good crowd in town and each and every voter was being importuned by the men who are seeking office. In so far as we can see the campaign seems remarkably free from the use of undue influence, and the outlook is that the persistent "float" is surely going to have poor picking. There seems to be a trend, a voluntary trend, toward the holding of fair and uninfluenced elections in the county, and we sincerely believe that the time is not far off when the use of either money or whiskey in elections in Garrard county will be a thing of the past, and every voter will go to the polls and vote his sentiments without having to account to anyone, either before or after he casts his ballot.

Within the democratic ranks in some of the races the rivalry is strong and the candidates and their friends are putting forth every effort in their power. However, they are all good men, and the rivalry is good natured and free from personalities. This is as it should be, and no matter who receives the various nominations, the defeated candidates should and will be satisfied.

Two contests on June 27th, a gold watch will be given to the successful girl and one to the successful boy, on June 27th, separate contest for valuable prizes.

Wheat Harvest.

Wheat cutting is well under way and the harvest gives promise of being an unusually good one. The acreage is below the average, but the quality and yield is splendid. We have heard of offers of from eighty to ninety cents per bushel, and we suppose this will be the prevailing price.

Lancaster Colored Man Gains Prominence

George Mullins a well known and worthy colored man who for many years has operated a threshing outfit, seems to have attained prominence in our neighboring county of Boyle, as each of the Danville papers insist in speaking of him as "Mr. Mullins". George broke into print by having a man injured that was working with his machine.

Scales For Rural Carriers.

The rural carriers have been provided with scales for the purpose of weighing parcels post packages collected on their routes. Patrons on rural routes may now dispatch packages up to eleven pounds in weight from their door to any part of the country. This is indeed a great accommodation to people living a distance from post or express offices.

V. A. Lear Qualifies As Administrator.

In the county court last Monday Victor A. Lear qualified as administrator of his mother Mrs. Susan A. Lear. On Thursday July 17th, Mr. Lear will sell the farm owned by his mother at the time of her death, which is an unusually desirable and well improved small farm. He will at the same time sell some live stock, household and kitchen furniture and eleven shares of stock in the National Bank of Lancaster.

Pleasant Hill Church.

The dedication of Pleasant Hill Church will take place next Sunday. This church has just been completed and the residents on the Poor Ridge pike are looking forward to its dedication with much interest. Every one is cordially invited and a sumptuous dinner on the ground will be provided for all. The church will be nonsectarian and the good people of this section of the County are to be congratulated upon its successful completion.

Mr. W. B. Mason III.

The Circuit Court does not seem like itself without the smiling countenance of Clerk W. B. Mason behind the desk. Mr. Mason is admitted to be one of the most efficient circuit clerks in the state and has held that office in this county for more years than he would like to have us say, and never misses a court. However, Mr. Mason has been quite sick the last week, and was compelled to take to his bed, but we are glad to say is much improved and expected to be out in a few days. During his absence Miss Sue Shelby Mason, who is quite as efficient in the clerks duties as her father has had charge of affairs, and is being assisted by Will A. Doty, who is thoroughly conversant with every character of clerical work about the court house.

County Court.

Many circumstances combined to render last Monday an unusually dull county court day; in the first place June court is always a dull court, being in the midst of harvest time, and added to this is the fact that a great number of our citizens are as yet a little timorous about doing unnecessary traveling because of the recent prevalence of the "hoss disease", and on top of this came welcome showers Sunday and again on Monday, which produced a season for those who are backward about getting out their tobacco, and in consequence the crowd was a very slim one and comparatively little business was transacted, and the small crowd that assembled was left to the tender mercies of the candidates. Very little stock was on the market and scarcely any sales of consequence were made.

STANFORD.

Miss Eloise Beazley is the guest of relatives in Danville.

Mr. Geo. P. Bright is at Crab Orchard for the summer.

Miss Virginia Givens of Harrodsburg is the guest of Miss Marion Grimes.

Mrs. J. W. Williams is visiting her sister, Mrs. M. E. Pruitt at Burnside.

Rev. A. A. Higgins of Glasgow, is spending a few days with his parents here.

Mr. and Mrs. John S. Baughman and children are spending the week at Crab Orchard.

Mrs. J. M. McCarty and children of Danville are the guests of Mr. W. L. McCarty and family.

Mr. Pearson Miller, of Ardmore, Okla. has been the guest of his uncle, Mr. Sam M. Owens.

Miss Matilda Douglas and Mrs. G. P. Turley of Richmond have been the guests of Mrs. R. T. Bruce.

Mrs. R. M. Newland and children have returned from Louisville after a visit to her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Elkin.

Dr. and Mrs. T. W. Pennington are rejoicing over the arrival of a little daughter at their home, her name is Francis Ann.

Miss Alice Alcorn entertained most charmingly on Monday morning with a sewing party for Miss Josephine Warren. Delightful refreshments were served.

Warren-Asbury.

One of the most brilliant weddings ever witnessed in Stanford was that of Miss Josephine Paxton Warren and Mr. Richard A. Asbury at the Presbyterian church at five thirty Wednesday afternoon. The church had been beautifully decorated for the occasion in green and white. While the throng of friends and relatives assembled Miss Mary Higgins played, in her usual delightful manner, the Nocturn in E flat by Chopin, and Mrs. Bromley artistically rendered on the violin Serenade by Becker. After this Mr. George D. Hopper, Jr., sang a baritone solo "For Thee Alone", by Gehl, which was immediately succeeded by the beautiful strains of the Lohengrin wedding march to which the bridal party entered the church. First came Mr. John Wesley Rout, Jr., and Mr. John Charles Osborn, Mr. Tom Asbury and Mr. C. D. McCollister, then Miss Eloise Love and Miss Mary Burch in opposite aisles, and Miss Margaret Warren, maid of honor, alone, these were followed by Miss May Asbury, the ring bearer. Then came Mrs. John Charles Osborn, matron of honor, immediately followed by the bride and her brother, Mr. Ashby M. Warren, who gave her in marriage. They were met at the altar by the groom and his best man, Mr. Darden Asbury together with Rev. P. L. Bruce, who said the ceremony in a very impressive manner. During the ceremony Miss Mary Higgins played very softly Rubenstein's Melody in F. The bridal party left the church to Mendelson's wedding march. As the bride and groom turned to leave the altar they were showered with rose petals from two hearts which were suspended just over their heads. The bride was gowned in white brocaded satin with charming train and trimmings of pearls and lace, her veil was held in place by a wreath of orange blossom, she carried a shower bouquet of roses and valley lilies. The bride who is an unusually charming girl never looked more lovely. The matron and maid of honor wore white gowns with pink sashes and hats and carried Killarney roses tied with pink tulle. The other maids also wore white gowns and pink sashes and hats but carried white roses tied with white tulle. The gentlemen of course wore the conventional afternoon suits. The groom is General Manager of The National Bauxite Mine of Tennessee with headquarters at Elizabethton, at which place he and his bride will spend the summer. The bride immediately after returning to her home changed her bridal attire for a handsome traveling gown of blue brocaded cloth and they left for Danville, where they took the train for an extended bridal tour after which they will be at home at Elizabethton, Tenn.

On Tuesday evening Mrs. Charlotte Warren, mother of the bride gave an informal reception for the bridal party. Pink and white was the color scheme for the evening, the dining room was beautiful in pink carnations, the ices and cakes served by Benedict of Louisville were in pink and white and the entire house was a bower of cut flowers. A most delightful evening was spent and the bride and groom were made to realize in many ways in what esteem they are held by their friends but in no way was it made more apparent than by the unusual number and quality of the bridal presents which were on display on Tuesday evening.

Miss Michaels, of Knoxville, gave a miscellaneous shower for Miss Warren before her return from that place.

The out of town guests were, Mr. and Mrs. Darden Asbury and Miss May Asbury, of New Orleans, Mr. Tom Asbury, of Elizabethton, Tenn., Mr. C. D. McCollister, of Chattanooga, Tenn., Miss Mary Gordon, Lexington, Tenn., John Charles Osborn, Mr. and Mrs. James J. Menefee, all of Knoxville, Miss Letitia Warren, Winchester, Mrs. W. S. Elkin, Atlanta, Ga., E. C. Mrs. Barnard, Washington, D. C. Mrs. W. O. Bradley, Frankfort, Miss Jennie Duncan, Mrs. Pattie D. Gill, Mr. John Duncan, Mr. Jos. Rogers, Mrs. Mattie Duncan and Miss Angie Kinnaird, all of Lancaster, and Mr. and Mrs. Phelps Cobb of Danville.

Judge Hardin A Disciple Of Isaac Walton.

Judge Chas. A. Hardin has developed quite a penchant for fishing, but as yet his visits to "Lake Placid" have not proven successful. However, if the genial Judge will exercise as much patience in wooing the finny tribe as he does in listening to the tiresome proceedings of the average court, he will undoubtedly prove a splendid disciple of Isaac Walton.

Popular Appointment.

Mr. Ernest Woods has been appointed postmaster at Paint Lick Ky. to fill the vacancy made by the death of Mr. A. B. Estridge. The appointment was made under the new Civil Service ruling. Mr. Woods participating in a competitive examination and his name being certified by the Civil Service Commission, together with that of two others. The appointment of Mr. Woods will give eminent satisfaction to the people who patronize the office, where he is very popular. He is president of the Peoples Bank, largely engaged in the mercantile business with the firm of Treadway & Woods and is an extensive live stock trader. Mr. Woods has ever been active in politics and his appointment will be a source of particular pleasure to his many democratic friends.

May It Live Long And Prosper.

We welcome to our list of exchanges the Junction City Picayune, weekly, edited by Mr. S. N. Ends, and ably edited at that, advocating many improvements editorially, for which the people of that community have long wished and sought, and we predict that Bro. Ends will surely "fill a long felt want."

Mr. Williams Located.

Mr. W. I. Williams and his family have taken rooms at the residence of Mr. G. M. Patterson on Richmond street and will continue to take their meals at the Kengarian. Mr. Williams will return to Tulsa about the middle of July, but Mrs. Williams and the children will remain in Lancaster until the coming of cold weather.

Thomas Ralston Gets An Indeterminate Sentence Of From Two To Twenty One Years In The Penitentiary For Manslaughter, In The Circuit Court.

A jury in the Garrard circuit court on last Friday found Thomas Ralston guilty of manslaughter, and under the law he will be given the indeterminate sentence of from two to twenty one years in the penitentiary. Mr. Ralston was defended by Judge Lewis L. Walker, James I. Hamilton and H. Clay Kauffman, while Commonwealth's Attorney E. V. Puryear and County Attorney J. E. Robinson were assisted in the prosecution by Henry Jackson of Danville Ky.

On Saturday Jan. 6, 1912 Ralston shot George Finley in the store of Woods & Treadway at Paint Lick; the wound produced partial paralysis, the wounded man was brought to the Lancaster Hospital on the following Monday and Dr. Barrow was summoned from Lexington in consultation with local physicians, but their efforts were fruitless, and the young man died on Friday January 12th. Ralston surrendered, claiming self defense, and was admitted to bond to await the action of the grand jury. The first trial proved ineffective because of a defect in the indictment and a second trial resulted in a hung jury. During the encounter Mrs. Rodney Griggs, a sister of Ralston received a bullet wound in her thigh from Ralston's revolver; she with Frank Ralston his son, were attempting to disarm him; her wound was a painful one at the time, but she soon recovered from its effects.

The convicted man is 52 years of age and has a wife and several children, while the deceased was 26 years of age and unmarried. Ralston was born and reared in the Paint Lick section of the county, while the dead man came to this county several years ago from Jessamine county, but was originally from Whitley county.

Two Declamatory Contests.

School Auditorium.

Friday Night, June 27th.

TWO GOLD WATCHES GIVEN AWAY.

HON. C. C. BAGBY, OF DANVILLE, JUDGE.

HOME GARDEN CLUBS GROWING

Campfire Girls of Louisville
Use Vacant Lots.

ADVICE FROM AN EXPERT.

Children Taught to Help Furnish Their Own Tables With Fresh Vegetables. Idea Is Spreading to Country Towns. Future Men and Women in Close Contact With Growing Things.

The continual cry, "Back to the soil," that is heard in the newspapers and magazines is keeping the attention of the people in the country as well as those in the city fixed on gardening and farming. This is not only true of the small town and the back country, but it is also true of our big cities, for home garden clubs are growing in popularity and in numbers each season. This spring the city of Louisville organized a home garden club that gardening among men, women and children, and especially the children, might be pushed. That the work might be real and that definite results might be obtained, vacant lots were secured at various points and model gardens planted. A man who had practical experience was engaged to take charge of the work and is now busy moving from place to place suggesting plans and methods by which the children can help furnish their own tables with vegetables fresh from their own gardens.

The plan which accompanies this article was taken on the outskirts of Louisville, where a group of four Campfire Girls have a model four plot garden.

This work will have a vital effect upon the men and women of tomorrow by giving them an understanding and a growth which can only come through close contact with the soil and growing things. Education is gradually shifting to a rational use of books and a fuller use of the life which the child leads in the garden, in the home, and under blue skies. It means an education that makes real blood throb in young veins; it means an education that does things in the everyday world; it means an education that is close to the primitive; it means an education that fits the child for life.

"BACK TO THE SOIL." Movement Can Be Aided by Modern Ideals and Methods. The effort to better rural conditions is touching a fundamental problem of American life. The "back to the soil" agitation can have little permanent effect until we go back to the tiller of the soil with the inspiration and enlightenment of modern ideals and methods. We must carry the message into every fertile valley and to every mountain side; we must get back from the traveled roads and the steam and electric lines; we must reach the little isolated schoolhouses, the country churches and every other agency that can be a source of help. We can give the schoolteacher and the itinerant preacher a broader viewpoint, and deeper interest in the welfare of their charges—an interest deeper because more practical and more hopeful.

Nor must we rest with this. A striking feature of the new movement is the determined effort to show the business man in the city that he has a point of intimate contact with the farmer—that in mutual help is to be found advantage for both. We like this work because it is based on sound social lines. It is in harmony with the finest ideals of the time. There is immense satisfaction to Kentuckians in finding the old state assuming a place of leadership in an undertaking so splendid and so promising. Editorial in Louisville Herald, April 2.

How to Aid Schools. Our public schools are not what they should be by any means mainly because of the disinterestedness of the parents. Co-operation is absolutely necessary if you would have a successful school taught in your community. Show your interest by visiting your school. Get acquainted with the teacher, learn her strong as well as her weak point and let her understand that you are interested. Let the children also know that you place a value upon their work.—Berry Citizen.

SUGGESTIONS BY STATE EDITORS

How Kentucky Schools May Be Improved.

TO EXTEND TERM IN OFFICE.

Superintendent of Public Instruction Should Have More Time to Carry Out Reforms—Aim Should Be Education Rather Than Instruction—Importance of Electing Good Officials.

Why Not?

[From the Louisville Times.]

The awakened and more intelligent interest in all that pertains to education in the commonwealth suggests an inquiry in some quarters. Why not, they ask, so contrive as that a continuity of reform be made the more certain by permitting a second term to the superintendent of public instruction? Allowing for the time necessary for him to shake down in his office and become at home with the routine, how, in the brief space left, may he hope to shape and perfect plans that shall have time to blossom and bear fruit? Is it not essential that if those plans meet public approval and support they be given every widest opportunity to prove their worth by results?

The suggestion is worth consideration. There is much to be said for it and something, no doubt, on the other side. But, at first glance, we are free to state that it "listens" well.

Our Slogan—"Education is an investment; ignorance is a tax."

[From the Russell Democrat.]

Herein lies the importance of education. We should educate rather than instruct, because it is far more important to cultivate the mind than to store the memory, and instruction is only a part of education. Studies are a means and not an end.

Children are by nature eager for information. They are always putting questions, and this ought to be encouraged. Their instincts may be trusted to a great extent, and in that case they will do much to educate themselves.

[From the Shelby Record.]

If our children are to improve at school there are two things their parents should bear in mind. There should be a progressive, energetic county school superintendent, and the school trustees must take interest in their work and do their very best to get the best results possible in their respective districts. There are not two more important officers in the county than that of superintendent and trustee. Bear this in mind when you are called on to elect them and vote for those who are qualified to fill these places.

[From the Berry Citizen.]

Physiology, hygiene and other features pertaining to sanitation should have a proper place upon the curriculum of the school at this place and taught regularly each week. In order that these subjects may be properly handled the four physicians of Berry should be placed in charge. Each one of them would be willing to give an hour of his time each week to the school as an instructor upon sanitary hygiene science. The mere teaching of physiology, while it may interest somewhat and tickle the fancy of many of the children, does not protect one against tuberculosis, typhoid fever and other infectious diseases. These subjects would not be too difficult to teach, and either of our physicians could make them understandable, interesting and valuable.

BANKERS OFFER PRIZES

FOR CORN GROWING CLUBS.

Georgetown Men Will Dispense With Calendar Advertising to Carry Out Plan.

Calendar advertising will be dispensed with this year, says the Louisville Herald, and the money usually spent along that line will be given by the bankers in prizes to the boys' Corn Growing club of Scott county. Commissioner of Agriculture Newman recently received a communication from the bankers of Georgetown stating that such action had been decided upon at a meeting of the bankers. As a result of this action about $200 from that source will be given in prizes.

This seems to be a sane and sensible thing to do. Calendar advertising brings inadequate returns for the money invested. The banks of this state are spending $30,000 or $40,000 annually for calendars, and except in rare cases this is a "dead" expense. It was all right years ago when banks first began to use this medium of advertising, but now practically every business house in every town passes out calendars to its customers. The merchant, the miller, the butcher, the blacksmith and others make a bid for trade in this way. As a result the bank's customers have more calendars than they know what to do with and for that reason none of them are properly appreciated. We venture the assertion that the lead of the Georgetown bankers will be followed by the bankers all over the state.

A Brief Statement Of Belief

Drawn From The Standards Of The Presbyterian Church In The United States.

I. GOD.

God is a spirit, infinite, eternal, and unchangeable; all powerful, holy, wise, good, true, and just, hating all sin. He is merciful and gracious, long suffering, and abundant in goodness and truth, but that all should come to repentance. This truth is summed up in the Bible statement, "God is love." He exists in three persons, Father, Son, and Holy Spirit, who are one God, the same in substance, equal in power and glory.

II. THE BIBLE.

The Scripture of the Old and New Testament are the Word of God, written by men inspired by the Holy Spirit. They are the revelation of God's will for man and of man's duty to God, and are the only infallible and authoritative rule of faith and life.

III. GOD'S PURPOSE.

The eternal purpose of God includes all events; it is holy and wise, and does not deprive man of freedom, nor make God the author of sin.

IV. CREATION.

For the manifestation of his own glory, God created the world and all things therein, whether visible or invisible, and all very good. He made man after his own image; male and female created He them, with immortal souls, endowed with knowledge, righteousness and holiness, having the law of God in their hearts, and power to fulfill it; and yet under a possibility of transgression, being left to the freedom of their own will.

V. SIN AND THE FALL.

Sin is the violation of God's law, either by omission or commission. Our first parents, being tempted by Satan, disobeyed God's command, and so by their own choice fell from their original state of innocence and communion with God, and came under the power of sin, the penalty of which is eternal death. All men, by reason of their relationship to Adam as their representative head and common ancestor, are born with a sinful nature from which all actual transgressions proceed; and out of this condition no one is able to deliver himself.

VI. SALVATION.

God who is rich in mercy, so loved the world that He gave His only begotten Son to be the Saviour of sinners. The salvation thus provided is freely offered to all men, and is sufficient for all, but becomes efficacious only in those who believe in Jesus Christ unto eternal life.

VII. ELECTION.

Before the foundation of the world, God the Father chose unto Himself in Christ a people whom He gave to His Son, that they should be holy and without blame before Him in love. Those who come to years of discretion receive this salvation only through faith in Christ; being regenerated by the Holy Spirit. Those who die in infancy, and others who are incapable of exercising choice, are regenerated and saved by Christ through the Spirit who works when and where and how He pleases. We thus declare that God's electing grace has peopled Heaven with a multitude that no man can number, and has never sent one soul to hell.

VIII. CHRIST THE REDEEMER.

The Lord Jesus Christ, being the eternal Son of God, became truly man, being conceived by the Holy Ghost and born of the Virgin Mary, yet without sin; so that He is both God and man, and the only perfect mediator between God and man, by whom alone we can come unto the Father. By a life of perfect obedience and by His sacrificial death, He satisfied divine justice, made a perfect atonement for sin, and reconciled us to God. He rose from the dead and ascended into Heaven, where He makes continual intercession for us; and he sits at the right hand of God, clothed with honor and power, subduing His people unto Himself, ruling and defending them, and restraining and conquering all His and their enemies. He will come again to receive and reward His people, and to judge the world.

IX. THE HOLY SPIRIT.

The Holy Spirit, the third person of the Godhead, applies the redemption purchased by Christ. He persuades and enables men to obey the call of the Gospel, and dwells continually in every believer as the Spirit of truth, of holiness, of power and of comfort, and is thereby the author of all Christian experience.

X. JUSTIFICATION BY FAITH.

Everyone who humbly relies upon Christ alone for salvation and in repentance confesses and forsakes his sins, is pardoned and accepted as righteous in God's sight, solely of the ground of the perfect obedience and sacrifice of Jesus Christ. Everyone thus pardoned and accepted is adopted into God's family, and becomes an heir of God and a joint heir with Jesus Christ.

XI. THE CHRISTIAN LIFE.

The Holy Spirit imparts spiritual life by the direct operation of His power; so that, being born from above, we are the children of God, created in Christ Jesus unto good works, which are not the ground but the fruits of salvation. Dwelling in Christ's people, He purifies them more and more from sin, enables them to render a cheerful obedience to God's commandments and perseveres in His sanctifying work in their hearts until at last they stand perfect in the presence of Christ in glory. Believers may at times, backslide, growing indifferent and cold, and even falling into grievous sins; yet God does not cast them off, but chastens them, and restores them through repentance to fellowship with Him.

XII. THE CHURCH.

We acknowledge one universal Church the same in all ages, of which Christ is the head. The Church invisible consists of all the redeemed. The Church visible is composed of all those throughout the world who profess faith in our Lord Jesus Christ, together with their children, and it is the duty of all believers openly to profess their faith by uniting with the Church. The Church exists to bring to Christ those whom the Father has given Him, and to establish the Redeemer's Kingdom. The mission of the Church is spiritual, and its work is to witness to the truth of God to the ends of the earth, and to present the Gospel to all men in every generation. We believe in the separation of Church and State. The scriptural form of church government is by elders or presbyters, chosen by the members of the Church, but we do not regard the form of government of a Church as essential to its existence. We recognize the validity of the ministry and sacraments of all evangelical Churches, and seek the unity of the Spirit in the bonds of peace. Ministers, elders and deacons, at their ordination, are required to subscribe to the system of doctrine contained in our Standards, but the sole condition for membership in the Church is a credible confession of Christ as Saviour.

XIII. THE SACRAMENTS.

There are two sacraments, baptism, which symbolizes the work of the Holy Spirit, and the Lord's supper, which symbolizes the sacrificial death of Christ. Sprinkling or pouring is the scriptural mode of baptism, but the mode is not essential to the validity of the sacrament. Children of believers, before reaching the age of personal accountability, are to be baptized on the faith of their parents, who in the sacramental act enter into covenant relations with God. We unite to the Lord's table all who love Him in sincerity and truth and who are in good and regular standing in evangelical Churches.

XIV. DEATH AND RESURRECTION.

The souls of believers are at their death made perfect in holiness; and do immediately pass into glory, and their bodies, being still united to Christ, do rest in the grave till resurrection. At the resurrection, believers being raised up in glory, shall be openly acknowledged and acquitted in the day of judgment, and made perfectly blessed in the full enjoyment of God to all eternity; but the wicked shall go away into everlasting punishment.

XV. THE FINAL STATE.

There are but two states of future existence. Heaven, the home of the redeemed, and hell, the abode of the finally impenitent. There is no purgatory, nor is there any probation after death. Man retains his identity after death, and there will be recognition in the future life. We believe in the ultimate and complete triumph of the Saviour's Kingdom, and with all His followers in all ages we toil and pray for the speedy coming of the day when our glorious Lord shall see of the travail of His soul and shall be satisfied.

Tuberculosis Exhibit Car.

The Tuberculosis Commission last Thursday engaged the services of Mr. James P. Faulkner, of Berea, to take charge of the traveling exhibit car. Mr. Faulkner has had a wide experience in lecturing on health topics; particularly tuberculosis, in the southeastern part of the state, and has more recently been the editor of the Berea Citizen. He will take charge of the car next week.

The Exhibit Car will be opened to the public for the first time at South Louisville, Tuesday, June 24th, at noon, and will remain in South Louisville for three days. Open from 12 o'clock till 6 o'clock and from 7:30 o'clock till 9 o'clock.

From South Louisville it will proceed toward Barstow, Springfield, Lebanon and Greensburg, visiting many of the small intermediate stops for a day. The car will then proceed to the southeast corner of the state. Mr. E. R. Snapp, the Advance Agent of the car, is now making preparation for its appearance in these various towns.

Mr. Roy French, the Secretary of the Commission, will be with the car for the first two weeks. Various members of the Commission will also accompany the car a few days each.

The Commission has decided to engage the services of a visiting nurse to be sent to various cities and counties of the state, for one or more months in each place. It will be the task of the nurse to discover the existing conditions, point the way to relieve them, and organize in each community an association or league, to retain the services of a resident nurse permanently. The salary of the one nurse will be paid by the Commission, but her living expenses must be borne by the various communities, which she serves. The Commission is anxious to receive requests for her services from responsible individuals, or organizations, in various parts of the state.

Wanted to Die Naturally.

Le Fano, in his "Seventy Years of Irish Life" tells of a peasant who said to a gentleman "My poor father died last night, your honor." "I'm sorry for that, now," answers the other, "and what doctor attended him?" "Ah, your poor father wouldn't have a doctor, he always said he'd like to die a natural death."

HUSBAND RESCUED DESPAIRING WIFE

After Four Years of Discouraging Conditions, Mrs. Bullock Gave Up in Despair. Husband Came to Rescue.

Carroll, Ky.—In an interesting letter from this place, Mrs. Bettie Bullock writes as follows: "I suffered for four years, with womanly troubles, and during this time, I could only sit up for a little while, and could not walk anywhere at all. At times, I would have severe pains in my left side.

The doctor was called in, and his treatment relieved me for a while, but I was soon confined to my bed again. After that, nothing seemed to do me any good. I had gotten so weak I could not stand, and I gave up in despair.

At last, my husband got me a bottle of Cardui, the woman's tonic, and I commenced taking it. From the very first dose, I could tell it was helping me. I can now walk two miles without its lining me, and am doing my work."

If you are all run down from womanly troubles, don't give up in despair. Try Cardui, the woman's tonic. It has helped more than a million women in its 30 years of wonderful success, and should surely help you, too. Your druggist has sold Cardui for years. He knows what it will do. Ask him. He will recommend it. Begin taking Cardui today.

See that joint!

THAT patented joint has revolutionized the whole business of building silos by making it possible to construct a perfectly solid stavesilo of any desired height. When put together with a little white lead at these joints, a two-piece stave is as good as if it were made of one-piece staves, and very much less expensive. There is no metal at these joints to become corroded by the acids and no outside moisture can collect in them to rot the wood. This joint adds years to the life of your silo and many dollars to its value.

We have a plan by which you can own an Indiana Silo and let it pay for itself out of what it saves for you on next winter's feed bills. Give us a chance to explain it to you.

Misses Ella Barnett and Florence Spraggin came over from Hustonville last week to attend the party given by Mr. Tom Chesnut.

Mrs. Bettie Kemper of Kansas City will arrive this week to be the guest of Miss Susan Sutton. Her youngest son, West Kemper will come with her.

The temperance lecture delivered by Rev. White last Sunday afternoon was very much enjoyed by his congregation. A donation was given to aid in the temperance work.

Miss Martha Dye who has been visiting relatives here returned to her home at Middleburg Friday. She was accompanied home by her grandmother Mrs. B. K. Swope.

Some time ago the horse driven by Mr. El Bourne became frightened and ran, throwing him and his two children who were with him to the ground. Mr. Bourne sustains a broken rib from the fall, but the children were injured.

A very attractive feature of the season was the lawn party given by Mr. Tom Chestnut last Friday evening in honor of his cousin Miss Cassie Chestnut of Oklahoma. Delightful refreshments were served. The music was furnished by Col. Tom Baughman and Pope Bros. of Boyle county.

BRYANTSVILLE.

Mr. J. C. Williams was in Cincinnati on business last week.

"I've had my Studebaker
15 years—and not a cent for repairs"

A word of just praise for a wagon that has done its work faithfully and well.

Men become attached to their Studebakers—proud of them.

Because they realize that a Studebaker is built on honor and with an experience in wagon building that dates back to 1852.

Studebaker wagons are a result of that long experience, coupled with a desire to build the best wagons, not cheap ones.

And when your dealer says "Buy a Studebaker—there's no better wagon made" he's giving you the verdict of a million farmers. He is not asking you to try an experiment.

Advantages of Night Schools

Few years ago large cities have recognized the absolute necessity for night schools, and they have become a part of such systems. The rural districts have been slow to understand the great waste in energy that comes through the lack of education in each and every community. Of course a few counties in the past year or two have developed "moonlight" or night schools, but it is merely a beginning.

Naturally one would suppose that a county which had for its county seat a city the size and importance of Louisville would have seen the tremendous advantage of such schools, but such has not been the case. When it has been suggested some wisecracker has remarked sagely: "It ain't any use. Nobody'll come. If they're too lazy to work they won't come, and if they're hard at work they'll be too tired at night to come. So there you are."

One day early last spring your correspondent happened to be in the office of the county superintendent at the courthouse at Louisville. While waiting he overheard a rural teacher ask, "If I get a few boys in my neighborhood interested in a night school proposition will you and the board stand by me and furnish light, heat and some new lamps?" Of course the superintendent at once agreed to the proposition, but a farmer who stood by edged a little closer and asked, "Who's going to pay for the extra work?"

The teacher flushed for a moment and then managed to stammer, "Why—how—what do you mean?"

"Why," he answered, "you ain't in the school teachin' work for your health, are you? What are you going to get for this extra two or three nights' work a week from now until the end of the spring term of school?"

"I'm going to get a big price for the work," she answered, with spirit. "The price is to be my own satisfaction that I am doing my full duty by the good folks that have kept me in one school for ten whole years. Don't you think I owe something to the people who have given me my bread and butter for ten years?"

That conversation made your correspondent vow that he would visit the little schoolhouse before the end of the spring term. He did ride out to the little building that is perched on a steep hillside to keep it out of the Ohio river during flood times. It was a dreary, rainy night. As he neared the railway station he felt that there would be no one there for work, but he was mistaken. Four boys out of the eighteen enrolled were on hand and ready for business.

Not one of the four had walked less than a mile in the damp night air, and all of them had been at work all day. Yet there they were, smiling and bright and eager, youngsters who during the time they had been in school as little tots had done practically nothing.

When the teacher said, "I am sorry it's a bad night and there are only four present," your correspondent thought:

"Only four present! But if at this moment each and every schoolhouse in the county had just this number at work it would mean that each year 400 would be caught and held and developed into something better and finer than they would be otherwise. If it could be kept up for ten years it would mean that the county would have 4,000 made over citizens. In a few years it would mean a new state. It is most certainly very much worth while."

New York's First Express Wagon.

"It was in 1841," said the oldest inhabitant, "that I was a witness to that wonderful event, the appearance on Broadway of the first express wagon. It was a one horse affair with a very white canvas cover, on which was painted conspicuously in very black letters the word 'Express.' The wagon made its way up and down the thoroughfare, to the wonder of beholders, who soon became curious to learn what it meant. Men came out of their stores and women leaned out of the windows to look at this ridiculous affair. People of that time were considered either lazy or proud who objected to carry home the purchases they made. A tale went the rounds that a woman customer of A. T. Stewart, the dry goods merchant, had required him to send home to her some insignificant purchase she had made at his store and that he had hired a dog to do it, sending the bill to her. In this he was considered entirely justified. Hitherto delivery of goods was made by any chance carrier who would go out of his way to get what was required to be brought home."—New York Sun.

A Matter of Tact.

Mr. Brown was in a bad temper, and as Mrs. Brown knew, there was only one way of curing it—to rouse him thoroughly—for when miserable himself he always accused other people of being miserable. He did on this occasion.

"Jane," he grumped at last, "you're as dull as an old owl. Sulking, I suppose, because I refused to buy you that new hat."

"No," sighed his wife; "I wasn't thinking about it. As a matter of fact, I've been turning out some old letters, and—oh, it's nothing of importance, only a bit of the blues."

"What letters?"

"Love letters."

"Some I wrote to you, I suppose?"

"No," said his wife calmly, "some I received before I'd met you. It's of no consequence—none at all. How is your cold?"—Exchange.

Grattan's Study of Oratory.

Professor Howard Marsh has just told the story of a lodger who complained of the "innate" above him who walked the floor all night talking to himself. The "innate" was John Bright preparing his speeches, and one recalls how Grattan in like circumstances concerned his handiwork. "It was a sad thing," she used to lament, "to hear her young lodger talking half the night to somebody he called 'Mr. Speaker,' when there was no speaker present but himself." Grattan's studies in the art of speaking, however, were not confined to the bedroom. He often walked in Windsor park addressing the oaks in parliamentary strain. And there is the story of the polite stranger who found him haranguing an empty ghille. "However did you get down?" he asked.—St. James Gazette.

Primitive Breadmaking.

The Arabs adhere to those ancestral principles of breadmaking which have been sanctioned by the experience of ages. The very first baker of bread that ever lived must have done his work exactly as the Arab does at this day. He takes some meal and holds it out in the hollow of his hands while his comrade pours over it a few drops of water. He then mashes up the moistened dough into a paste, pulls the lump of dough so made into small pieces and thrusts them into the embers. His way of baking exactly resembles the craft or mystery of roasting chestnuts as practiced by children. There is the same prudence and circumspection in choosing a good hearth for the morsel, the same enterprise and valor in pulling it out with the fingers.—Kinglake's "Eothen."

The Days of Dogcart.

There are probably people still living who remember when dogs drew carts in England. These original dogcarts, which were suppressed by law in the middle of the last century, were largely used by costermongers and the bumbler members of the faucy for Sunday outings. The dogs employed were large animals, of mongrel breed, with a strulu of the old English mastiff. A twenty or thirty mile run in and out was nothing to them, and they kept up their strength on the journey with a scanty allowance of bread soaked in beer.—London Mail.

A Talleyrand Retort.

The Duchess of Lauraguais, who was somewhat given to making poetry, could not think of a word to rhyme with coffee. Turning to Talleyrand, who chanced to be by her side, she said, "I'm sure, give me a rhyme to coffee." "Impossible, duchess," replied Talleyrand without a moment's delay, "for that which pertains to the head of a woman has neither rhyme nor reason."

Dandy Jim

By ALICE CHEEVER

Dandy Jim, as he was called from the fact that he was occasionally seen wearing a bolted shirt, was a very good man, but he had very bad luck. He was walking on a trail in the Rocky mountains from a prospecting tour to Denver and was feeling very happy because he had dug up some quartz that he believed to be valuable and was going down to the city to have it assayed.

Besides a pocketful of nuggets, Jim had considerable dust about him, and he made up his mind that as soon as he reached the stage road he would look out for a coach and buy a ride. But before he got there he met a man on an iron gray horse, and the idea occurred to him that he would buy the animal and ride to Denver.

"Want to sell that critter?" he asked the rider.

"What you want to give for him?"

"Twenty dollars in dust," Jim offered that to start a trade. He thought the horse worth three or four times that amount.

"Done," said the man, nimbly leaping off the horse.

Jim looked his best over and could not find anything the matter with him so he mounted and continued his journey. He hadn't gone more than a mile before he was surrounded by a dozen men, each man pointing a revolver at him and calling on him to surrender.

"Get off my horse!" said one of the men.

Well, to make a long story short, Jim had paid for a stolen horse. But it didn't avail anything for him to tell how he came by it, for he was not known to any of the party, and what he said was considered a very thin story. He was taken down the mountain to a town where the owner of the horse and the rest of the party lived to be dealt with, if not according to law, at least to be tried before Judge Lynch.

Dandy Jim was a good looking chap and over twenty-two years old. He was confined in a room in the house of the owner of the stolen horse, and a young girl hanging up clothes in the garden saw him standing at the window looking melancholy and hand some. Either of these features in a man is enough to win a girl's heart, and the two together are irresistible.

How this young woman, who was the niece of the owner of the horse and was called Mag, made the acquaintance of Dandy Jim was considered a mystery by the simple people of the town, though it is easily accounted for on the theory of "three laughs at locksmiths." Be this as it may, she had a conference with him unknown to any one and set her wits to work to free him from his sad condition. Jim was to be given a trial trial before Judge Lynch the next morning, which meant that he would be swung off by noon.

That night Mag made a second theft of the horse—though she put him back in the stable before any one knew of his having been taken—and rode five miles to the sheriff of the county and begged him to interfere in the illegal trial and hanging that were to take place the next morning. Mag's petition was not official, and the sheriff was not disposed to save the neck of a horse thief, unless compelled to do so officially. When Mag failed in this she begged the sheriff to give her an order for the body of Dandy Jim, and the sheriff to get rid of her granted her request. The officer was not an educated man and asked Mag to write the order. She wrote, "Give the body of the horse thief to the sheriff," and he signed his name as sheriff to it, with his official seal.

Mag rode back with her paper and the next morning knocked at the door of a young man who had recently come to town from the east and had hung out his shingle as an attorney. She told him that she had been to the sheriff to ask him to interfere, but had failed. All she could get out of him was an order for the horse thief's body that she might bury it decently. Couldn't the lawyer do something to save the man's life?

The young man asked to see the order for the horse thief's body, and as soon as he had read it he sat up and took notice.

"This is a habes corpus," he said.

"A what?" asked Mag.

But the lawyer made no reply. He sat down by a table and sprinkled a lot of Latin words over the order, put in the horse thief's name—which he got from Mag—and his own name, and when he got through with it it was the most formidable legal document that had ever been seen in those parts. He had scarcely finished when through a window Dandy Jim was seen being led to a shed near by for trial.

He was convicted before the lawyer could get ready to go to his defense, and the judge was pronouncing sentence when the former approached the court and said:

"Your honor, I hereby present an order of habes corpus in this case from the sheriff."

The sheriff's name, backed by his seal and the sprinkling of Latin words, was too much for the committee, and it surrendered the prisoner.

Two days later the real thief was brought in and was swung off in Dandy Jim's place.

This story ends as all such stories should end, with a wedding between Dandy Jim and Mag.

Landmarks of Typewriter Progress

Such are all the recent developments of the

Remington

(Visible Models 10 and 11)

Among these developments are:

The Built-in Decimal Tabulator—which makes the decimal tabulating mechanism an integral part of the typewriter.

The Tabulator Set Key—which eliminates all hand setting of the tabulator steps.

The Column Selector—which determines, by the stroke of a single key, the exact point on each line where the writing is to begin.

The Adding and Subtracting Remington Wahl Mechanism—which comes in one type-er, and in one operation, the functions of the writing machine and the adding machine.

Every one of these new developments is an evidence of the personal leadership of the Remington Typewriter. Illustrated booklet descriptive of all recent Remington improvements, sent on request.

Difference In Methods

So far as doing some kinds of business, the bee hasn't any advantage over the yellow-jacket. They are both "warm numbers" especially when they sit down—as the boy said.

The difference in their methods is what causes the bee to be pampered and petted and provided with a nice little ready-made store house by man, while everybody "swatts" the yellow-jacket. Any chump can tell you the reason. It is because the yellow-jacket is shiftless, while the bee SAVES. Moral—Start a bank account at our bank.

The Bishop's Tar Water.
The indorsement of a nostrum by a clergyman, above all by a bishop, has for hundreds of years been all that was necessary to obtain recognition for such a remedy from a believing public. Bishop Berkeley set all Britain to drinking tar water. Supposedly having received benefit from the use of tar water when ill of the colic, he published a work on "The Virtues of Tar Water," on which he said he had bestowed more pains than on any of his productions, and a few months before his death he published his last work, "Further Thoughts on Tar Water." That was in 1753. That tar water had not passed out of favor in rural England in the time of Charles Dickens is made evident in a laughable incident in "Great Expectations," where Pip, by a substitution of tar water in a bottle of wine, gives Uncle Pumblechook, corn chandler and needsman, opportunity to take a long swig of Bishop Berkeley's cure-all, much to that eminent sea-man's astonishment and disgust.—Pall Mall Gazette.

Where the Earth's Crust is Thinnest.
Italy is visited by an excessive number of earthquakes and volcanic disturbances because it is the newest part of the earth's surface," declares M. Poprett of Paris, a French geologist of authority. People, especially those living in the western hemisphere, look upon Europe and all of the eastern hemisphere, in fact, as the "old world," which, taken one way, is right. But in the matter of the formation of the earth's crust, which geologists now agree is the result of the cooling of the great molten mass that makes our earth, it so happened that the section round about Italy was the last to cool and consequently has not yet cooled to so great a depth as other portions of the world. This, then, makes Italy the newest part of the world's surface, for our geologists are correct in their estimation regarding the tardiness in the cooling of that particular section.—New York American.

England's "Basket Justice."
Centuries ago justice in England was not administered nearly so impartially as it is now. There were the "basket justices," who received their nickname from the presents openly handed up to them in court by suitors. And in more recent times there were the "trading justices," satirized by Fielding in "Amelia." Townsend, the celebrated Bow street runner, in his evidence before a parliamentary committee in 1816 described how these justices used to issue hatches of warrants every day "to take up all the poor devils on the streets so as to charge them 2s. 4d. each as bail. Only the penniless offenders were sent to gaol, and a morning's work would sometimes produce £10 ($50)," after which the worthy magistrate and his clerk would adjourn to a neighboring hostelry for refreshment.—London Graphic.

His Masterpiece.
The greatest comic artist in the world drew a caricature of a woman's hat. The picture was so funny that he almost had to laugh at it himself, but when he showed it to his wife she never cracked a smile.

"Don't you like it?" inquired the artist.
"Like it?" she replied. "Of course I like it. It's the dearest, sweetest, loveliest hat I ever saw in my life. Why do you waste your time on those horrid comic pictures when you are capable of designing beautiful things like this? I'm going right down and have my milliner make me one just like it!"

And she did.
Moral—You can't caricature a woman's hat.—London Tit-Bits.

A Feat in Shorthand.
Although Henri Blowitz was Paris correspondent of the London Times for thirty years, he never learned to write English. This gap in his acquirements led to the performance of a remarkable shorthand feat on the part of J. G. Alger, one of his colleagues. Every day Blowitz used to dictate his article in French, and Mr. Alger would take it down in shorthand in English. How many are there, even among those perfectly equipped in both languages, capable of such a performance?—London Spectator.

So Generous of Him.
"So poor old Johnson has failed? Too bad! He promised me something yesterday, but now in his trouble I won't hold him to it."

"That's a very generous of you. What was it?"
"His daughter's hand in marriage."—Boston Transcript.

All He Said.
Officer—How is this, Murphy? Sergeant complains that you called him names. Private Murphy—Plaze, sur, I never called him any names at all. All I said was, "Sergeant," says I, "some of us ought to be in a meang-erie."—London Tit-Bits.

His Favorite Paper.
"What is your favorite illustrated paper?" asked the cheerful idiot.
"The ten dollar bill," replied the boob.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Where They Go.
"Ma, where do the trees put their green dresses when winter comes?"
"In their trunks, my dear."—Baltimore American.

From the Heart He Spoke.
The inventor—That machine can do the work of ten men. Visitor—Gee whiz! My wife ought to have married it!—Puck.

Best Laxative For The Aged.

Old men and women feel the need of a laxative more than young folks, but it must be safe and harmless and one which will not cause pain. Dr. King's New Life Pills are especially good for the aged, for they act promptly and easily. Price 25c. Recommended by R. E. McRoberts & Son.

The Highest Inland Sea.
The highest navigable body of water in the world is Lake Titicaca, which lies in South America about midway between the Horn and the equator. With a size nearly as great as Lake Erie, it is two miles above the level of the sea and is continually shrouded in the clouds and mists of the Andes. Rugged, rocky islands dot its surface, and it possesses dozens of great, unexplored bays. Its average depth is 1,000 feet—nearly twice that of Lake Superior—but in many places bottom has never been found. The lake never freezes, although, because of its height, it is situated in a land of almost perpetual winter. Along the shores are ruins of great cities, probably of the Incas, but so ancient are they that even the Indians have no idea of their origin or history. Several steamers ply over the lake and carry on a valuable trade in gold and other products of the mountains.—New York Mail.

The Too Good Alibi.
There is no defense so familiar to criminal courts as the alibi, proof that the accused was not near the scene of a crime when that crime was committed. There is no defense more satisfactory, except when it is too good. A too good alibi is one of the most suspicious things on earth. When an accused man brings witnesses who swear to his whereabouts for each minute of the period in question the jury begins to doubt. The foreman of the jury cannot prove where he was at the same time with that much assurance. Probably the judge cannot. How does the accused man happen to have that proof which others lack? Are his witnesses lying, or was the crime committed earlier than the state thinks, and is the alibi a "plant"? Honest men, going unthinkingly about honest business, can seldom prove their whereabouts minute by minute. The fellow who knows the need of an alibi has one ready.—Chicago Journal.

How He Would Take It.
President Lincoln used to tell a wildcat currency story. It was to the effect that he was going down the Mississippi river on a steamboat when the pilot announced to the captain that they were out of wood. The captain said, "Well, put into the first wood pile."

The flat bottomed boat was run up to the mud shore, and the captain hailed a man who was walking among several piles of wood.

"Will you sell your wood?" he shouted.

"Yes," came the reply.

"For cash?"

"Yes."

"Take wildcat currency?"

"Certainly."

"Well, how will you take it?"

The answer came back without hesitation. "Cord for cord."—New York Times.

What Would You Do?

"What would you do if you were a millionaire?" was the question propounded to the little boys of an east side school the other day.

The little east siders' answers were interesting. Some of them wrote:

"I would have a house with rooms for each kind of use, such as sitting room, bedroom and dining room."

"I would buy banks and be a bank president at a large salary."

"I would live on Fifth avenue in a clean house and buy autos and chariots."

"I would be proud of my situation and also glad, and I would own autos and earn money by hiring them out."

"I would feast my peasants; also institute an education school."

"I would buy the subway and get rich by charging 10 cents."—New York Tribune.

A Queer View of Education.

Opposition to state education in the past was due largely to a belief that too much learning was not good for the masses. The worthy Hannah More even, who was one of the most earnest supporters of the movement for the establishment of schools for the poor in England, had very definite ideas as to how far the children should be educated. The curriculum, she declared, should comprise only reading the Bible and the catechism, and "such coarse works as may fit the children for servants," adding decisively, "I allow of no writing for the poor."—Chicago News.

Way Behind the Times.

He—Is this the new cook's bread? I never ate better. She—Yes, but she's woefully unscientific—not up to date at all. I asked her if she knew what caused the bread to rise and she said it was the yeast. Said she'd never heard of fermentation! I'm not at all sure I want to keep her.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Good Enough to Dine With.

"These Millers are dreadful people—hardly fit to be associated with!"
"Yes; if they didn't give such excellent dinners they would be altogether unbearable!"—Filigende Blatter.

When Language Fails.

Wife of His Bosom (in course of domestic difference)—Coward! Brute! Ruffian! Pig! Monster! Beast! Oh, I wish you knew what I thought of you!—London Punch.

Not His Say.

Beggs—What do you say to your wife when you come home late at night? Jaggs—Foolish man! What makes you think I get a chance to talk?

No Rush to Battle Stones for sin in the tent—G. Campbell Morgan.

Ulcers And Skin Troubles.

If you are suffering with any old running or fever sores, ulcers, boils, eczema or other skin troubles, get a box of Bucklen's Arnica Salve and you will get relief promptly. Mrs. Bruce Jones of Birmingham, Ala., suffered from an ugly ulcer for nine months and Bucklen's Arnica Salve cured her in weeks. Will help you. Only 25c. Recommended by R. E. McRoberts.

QUEST FOR OLDEST STUDEBAKER WAGON

Venerable Vehicles Located That Have Been in Service Since 1865.

Away back in 1865, forty-eight years ago, Dave Clark bought a farm wagon. The Civil War was over. Men's minds turned to thoughts of peace and the country was trying to forget the throes of the conflict by sturdily endeavoring to conquer the agricultural possibilities of the Northwest. Mr. Clark purchased his wagon from the Studebaker agent at Glenetown, Wis., drove it out to his farm and from that day to this that faithful old wagon has been hauling Mr. Clark's grain and potatoes and truck to market.

Figuring that a working year contains 300 days, Mr. Clark's wagon has been working for 14,400 days, and allowing a ton to the load, it has hauled a like number of tons for its owner, over good roads and had, through winter storms and summer heat.

This remarkable story of a farm wagon was unearthed by the House of Studebaker when it was decided to offer prizes to the owners of the oldest Studebaker wagons. Studebaker publishes an almanac, which has a tremendous circulation among the farmers of the United States, and a page was devoted to explaining that, as the house had been building wagons for over half a century, it would be interesting to learn whether any old wagons had survived the wear and tear of years and service, and to stimulate interest a series of prizes was offered.

Now, it has been ascertained that the House of Studebaker that a Studebaker wagon was built to last. Tested iron and steel air dried lumber, careful workmanship are built into every wagon sold, and it was reasonably expected that a farm wagon, properly used, might last twenty-five or thirty years.

The result of the quest for the oldest wagon surprised the experts of Studebaker. A wagon that had been in service twenty-five years was a mere infant, so to speak. The wagons that had been in service for thirty years were half-grown children, to carry the comparison further, while there were ample records to prove that wagons of forty years of age were not uncommon.

Dave Clark, now of Bemis, South Dakota, heads the list with his forty-eight-year-old veteran. G. H. Bowman, of Sandy Lake Pa., and Sam Hane, of Carbon, Ind., both own wagons bought in 1866, and then follows a long list of wagons bought in 1868, and succeeding years, the percentage climbing higher as the early seventies and eighties were reached.

A remarkable fact was noted as replies to the contest began to pour in. Wagons bought forty-five years ago—as well as those of more recent date—are still working. One farmer writes: "I frequently draw 4,200 pounds of coal at a load." Another farmer states that he uses his Studebaker wagon for hauling timber and frequently loads 1,800 feet on his faithful Studebaker, which has been in actual service for forty-three years.

Reading through the hundreds of letters sent to Studebaker by farmers throughout the country reveals the fact that without exception Studebaker wagons are praised for the way they stand up under work. Repairs are infrequent. One farmer writes: "I bought a Studebaker wagon in 1869 and it has hauled thousands of bushels of grain to market. Never was a lighter running wagon. It has been of no expense to us and has given perfect satisfaction. I am still using the wagon and expect to use it for many years to come."

Another farmer states he has been in several runaways, in one of which a horse was killed, but the wagon came out all right, although it smashed into a stone pile; This farmer writes: "The wagon seems to stand all it can get."

A farmer who ran his wagon for thirty years says the wagon seems to be all right. Hounds, axes and gear are perfect, but back in 1887 he had to have the front tires set.

Still another farmer relates that he bought a Studebaker wagon thirty-two years ago. He has had new boards put in the body and thinks two new spokes have been fitted; also a new nut on a rear axle. But outside of these repairs the wagon is just as he bought it, and, he writes, "the roads are pretty poor around here."

And so the stories go. Every day letters come to Studebaker telling remarkable stories about the sturdiness and long life of wagons sold three decades ago. Just who will win the prizes is still a matter of conjecture. At the present time Mr. Clark's forty-eight-year-old wagon appears to head the list. But there may be others a year or so older. The contest is an open one and Studebaker is giving much time and attention to sifting out the contestants and making sure that the wagons entered are authentic.

In any event, Studebaker can point with pride to a long list of wagons that have demonstrated their sterling worth and their ability to stand up under any and all circumstances.

About the Middleman.

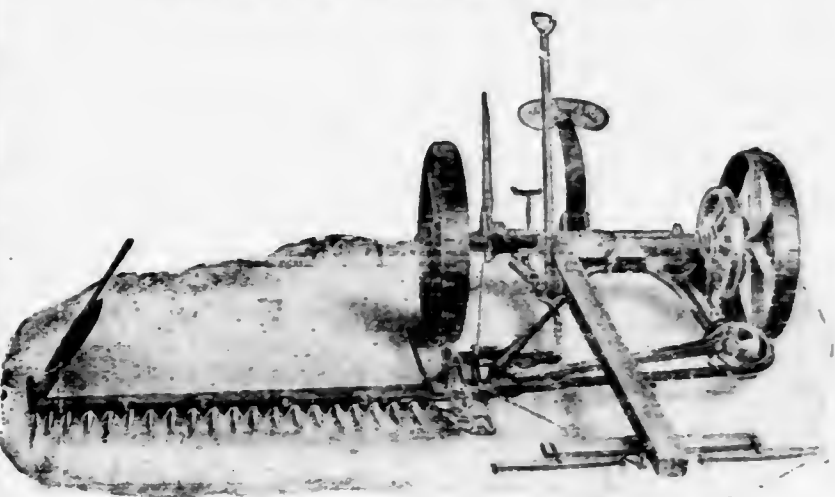

"The middleman is the one who makes all the confusion in this question of supply and demand," said the off-hand economist. "Yes," replied the man with the double chin. "But what are you going to do about it? You can't possibly ignore the waiter and do business directly with the cook."

Doctors Use This for Eczema

Dr. Evans, Ex-Commissioner of Health, says: "There is almost no relation between skin diseases and the blood." The skin must be cured through the skin. The eczema must be washed out, and so on. It will take away the itch the instant you apply it. In fact, we are so sure of what D.D.D. will do for you that we will be glad to let you have a 31 bottle on our guarantee that it will cost you nothing unless you find that it does the work.

There is a pretty well defined rumor afloat that a couple of Lancaster's most popular young people were married in Cincinnati on Wednesday, a rumor however which we are unable to verify and to secure details sufficient to make such a report as we would like to have of the affair. Persons appear in this issue of the Record of both of the alleged contracting parties and we are inclined to believe they were handed us for the purpose of misleading us as to the time and place of the wedding. We hope to publish a detailed account of the wedding next issue.

Oats Better Than Anticipated.

Because of short drouths at critical periods the oats and timothy hay crops were thought to have been considerably damaged, but under the influence of the recent showers, these crops have come out wonderfully and the crops will far exceed the expectations of the farmers.

Wind, Rain And Lightning

A severe wind and electrical storm visited Lancaster on Tuesday afternoon, blowing down trees in several yards and doing considerable damage in the way of blowing off limbs and injuring shade trees. It was very much feared that serious damage would be done in the country to the grain which is ready to cut, and should it be blown down would not in its ripened condition, get up again. However, the storm seems to have confined itself to Lancaster and to have spent its force within the city limits.

Col. Hopper Improving.

It affords The Messenger great pleasure to report a decided improvement in condition of Col. Ed. C. Hopper, who is in the Danville and Boyle County Hospital. Col. Hopper, who lives at the Gilcher Hotel, was stricken by illness some days ago, and his condition became so serious it was deemed best to remove him to the hospital. As stated above, he is improving rapidly, and his legions of friends hope to see him again on the streets within a few days.—Danville Messenger.

Skating To Be Stopped By Ordinance.

The average child turns very readily to any kind of amusement offered it and there is very little to be offered them in cities the size of Lancaster, and the newly constructed concrete walks appealed very strongly to them for skating purposes. We were very much in hope that as long as they remained in the bounds of reason that this pastime would not be denied, however, there have been many complaints to the city authorities, and so persistent have they become that the Council were compelled to take cognizance of them and will enact an ordinance prohibiting skating on the sidewalks. In the meantime, and until the ordinance can be passed and become effective, Chief Herron will endeavor to check the craze as much as possible, and however much we regret to do so, we would advise the kiddies to cease skating on the pavements and save themselves a probable conflict with the officers of the law.
